By far my favorite place in the Princeton area. So far I've had the Shepard's pie, the fish and chips, and the rocky hill burger (the one someone complained about having an egg.) All these dishes, as well as the service, have been excellent. If you just want mediocre bar food, go to the Tiger's Tail. Me, I'm willing to pay another $3 for better quality.

There are two sides to the place, the tavern side, which has a bar and more casual seating, and the dining room side, which is more formal. There is also outside seating in the front. Regardless of which side you are seated, you can order from either menu, so you can stay moderately priced, or be a little more spendy if you want.

I have found the hidden gold nugget in the Princeton area. Interesting old inn, pleasant staff, and absolutely marvelous food!!! AND it's still relatively undiscovered. My husband & I recently visited for "Restaurant Week" and tried the prix fixe menu. I seldom have soup out. Last time was at a very pricey, noted Princeton area restaurant and it was taken away barely touched. The server convinced me to try the soup as "RHI is known for its soups". I made a deal to trade 1/2 way through with my husband who had the salad. It was a hard deal to keep. The soup was perfect! I had salmon for the entree. There is no way to do justice to this dish. The hot grilled salmon sat atop a cold salad of paper-thin cukes, onions, fennel(?), fresh dill and a vinaigrette. The combination was divine!!! My husband had the double pork chop and loved it. Dessert was bread pudding - enough for 2 or 3 and my husband had gelatto - FOUR scoops. We each took 1/2 our entrees home and were stuffed, stuffed, stuffed. All for $25.00.
We will be back.
